

President Trigg, of Chamber of Commerce, to Speak Here Next Thursday Evening

PROMINENT PHILADELPHIA MANUFACTURER, AND ONE OF THE NATION'S INDUSTRIAL LEADERS, WILL OPEN THE CIVIC ASSO-CIATION'S SERIES OF PUBLIC TALKS IN ELM HALL—TO SPEAK ON "SOMETHING ABOUT OUR INDUSTRIAL PROBLEMS."

If you want to hear one of Philadelphia's most prominent business men, who is also one of the nation's foremost manufacturers and employers, speak on a subject that vitally concerns all the people of this country, reserve next Thursday evening, December 11.

On that evening, Mr. Ernest T. Trigg, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce and vice-president and general manager of the John Lucas Company, will speak in Elm Hall on the subject, "Something About Our Industrial Problems." In his address Mr. Trigg will discuss the present situation in the light of recent events.

This will be the first of a series of talks to be given in Elm Hall during the winter by prominent speakers, under the auspices of the Narberth Civic Association.

How to Get Tickets.

Mr. Trigg's talk next Thursday evening, like all the talks that are to follow during the winter, will be free to the residents of Narberth and their friends, but admission will be by ticket only. There will be no charge for the tickets, and they may be obtained from any of the following officers and directors of the Civic Association, and at the following stores and offices here in Narberth:

Joseph H. Nash, James Artman, A. J. Loos, R. J. Dohard, R. J. Edgar, Miss Maizie Simpson, J. J. Cabrey, Mrs. C. P. Fowler, H. R. Hillegas, Charles H. A. Chain, W. R. D. Hall, H. A. Jacobs, F. A. Lanahan, Daniel Leitch, G. Knutzen, R. J. Nesper, E. A. Muschamp, Fletcher W. Stites, A. E. Wohler, Walter Y. Shaw, Walton M. Wentz, Mrs. C. W. Young, Mrs. James Foote.

Howard's and Smith's drug stores, Howard Davis' store, the Y. M. C. A., and the Merion Title and Trust Co.

Mr. Trigg a National Figure.

The Civic Association feels that it is particularly fortunate in being able to secure Mr. Trigg to speak next Thursday evening. Probably there is no man in the country who is in a better position to discuss business, industry and labor conditions from the viewpoint of the employer and the large manufacturer than Mr. Trigg. In addition to being one of the heads of the Lucas paint company and president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, he is intimately associated with the other leading employers and manufacturers of the nation. During the war he was Regional Advisor for the War Industries' Board for Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware; he is a director of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, a member of the Pennsylvania State War Council; president of the National Federation of Construction Industries. Recently he served as a member of the Industrial Conference at Washington, selected along with other employers by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to represent the capital group in that important gathering.

Mr. Trigg will begin his talk at 8.15 o'clock sharp, and we urge all those who want to hear him to secure their tickets as soon as possible and to be on hand early.

Remember, the time is next Thursday evening, December 11, at 8 o'clock, Elm Hall.

Remember, also, that while the meeting will be free, admission will be by card only and that cards may be obtained from any of the officers and directors of the Civic Association, and from any of the merchants and offices listed above.

The Committee of the Civic Association that is arranging these talks has received acceptances from a number of very well-known men, each of whom will speak on some timely and interesting topic. Complete announcement of speakers, topics and dates will be published in later issues of Our Town.

THE FIRESIDE

Mrs. R. L. Durbin, of Narberth avenue, entertained the Thimble Club at her home on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cohie and daughter (Jane Estelle Cohie) spent Thanksgiving week visiting with friends at Washington, Pa., and Pittsburgh.

The Mother Goose Carnival, which was to have been directed by the Women's Auxiliary this month, has been postponed until February 23 and 24, 1920.

You can get tickets to Elm Hall next Thursday or Friday evening to hear Mr. Ernest T. Trigg by applying to any officer or director of the Narberth Civic Association, or at any of the stores or offices listed on the first page of this issue.

The Postmaster says letters addressed to Santa Claus should contain the name and address of the sender, just the same as regular letters, or Santa may not be able to tell who wrote the letter or where to send the Xmas gifts.

Don't forget to visit the Christmas sale in the Y. M. C. A. building, under direction of the Women's Auxiliary, on Saturday, December 13th, between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M.

Remember, reserve next Thursday evening for the first of the public talks to be held in Elm Hall under the auspices of the Civic Association. Mr. Ernest T. Trigg, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, who was a member of the recent Industrial Conference at Washington, will be the speaker.

Pennsylvania League of Woman Citizens

IMPORTANT MEETING WEDNES-
DAY, DEC. 10, AT 2.30 P. M., COL-LEGE CLUB, 1300 SPRUCE
ST., PHILADELPHIA.

The annual meeting of the Montgomery County Committee will be held on Wednesday, December 10, at 2.30 o'clock, at the College Club, 1300 Spruce street, Philadelphia.

This meeting is open to any one, and it is hoped that the attendance will be large, as important business will be transacted—as reorganization as League of Women Citizens and election of officers for next year.

"The Object of this Association shall be to improve and beautify the Borough and vicinity; to assist and co-operate with the authorities in enforcing laws and ordinances relating thereto; to promote any project having for its purpose the betterment of the community as a whole; to provide a means of acquiring and disseminating information on any subject of general interest; and to foster and maintain a fraternal spirit among the people of our community." Dues for Voting Membership for one year, $1.00. Every resident of Narberth and vicinity eligible.

Better Train Service For Narberth

The November 30th time table of the Pennsylvania Railroad shows the following additional trains:

From Broad Street Station to Narberth—Daily: 1.45 P. M., 2.45 P. M., 3.13 P. M., 7.15 P. M.

From Narberth to Broad Street Station—8.18 A. M. replaces 8.13 A. M., 12.47 P. M., 1.47 P. M., 3.17 P. M., 7.50 P. M.

The 7.50 P. M. theatre train on the schedule is the direct result of a request made by the Narberth Civic Association to the railroad management, suggested by a member interested in better service for Narberth folks going to the city in the evening, as the old schedule provided no trains between the 7.29 and 8.29 P. M.

This is one of the many things the Civic Association has done and can do to make the Year Round Home Town a better town.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22, 1919.

Secretary, Narberth Civic Association,

Narberth, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:

Referring to previous correspondence: I am pleased to advise that we have finally prevailed upon our Transportation Department to stop evening train No. 5392 at Narberth, under new schedule effective November 30. In fact, beginning that date, No. 5392 will make all stops to Philadelphia, arriving Broad Street Station 8.06 P. M., instead of 8.00 P. M., as at present, thus providing additional service from Wynnewood, Merion and Overbrook, as well as from Narberth. I trust this arrangement will prove satisfactory to all concerned.

General Passenger Agent.

The Narberth Boys' Club

The Narberth Boys' Club has resumed activities and started the 1919 season with twenty-four members. During the war the club was disbanded owing to a large percentage of its members being in the service. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: John Dickie, President; Bill Jones, Vice-President; Art Cooke, Treasurer, and Ben Witherow, Secretary. Meetings are being held in the Y. M. C. A., through the courtesy of Mr. Dayton.

Numerous activities are being planned for the coming winter. A fast basketball team will be put on the floor, captained by John Dickie, with Baron Harris as manager. The club will also take part in numerous pool and bowling tournaments along the Main Line.

The boys will be given a dinner the first Friday in December through the kindness of Mrs. Odell.

This year's aim will be to develop the club more as a social organization than an athletic club, and several plans are now under way for dances and entertainments.

Y. M. C. A. Campaign Ther- mometer Comes Down While Ascending

INDICATOR HAS BEEN REMOVED,
ALTHOUGH CONTRIBUTIONS AND PLEDGES CONTINUE TO BE RECEIVED.

The Y. M. C. A. campaign for funds for its contemplated improvements continues, and contributions are still coming in, even though the association has removed the thermometer-indicator used during the early days of the campaign.

Many of the members of the Campaign Committee have out workers' cards, which constitute potential contributions to the building fund, and the workers are urged to make final report just as early as possible.

The workers' cards also indicate that subscription forms were left with many prospective contributors who promised to fill in their pledge and return it to the association. This in most cases has been done, but many are outstanding, and those still intending to pledge their aid to this most worthy work are urged to send in their cards promptly, as this will very materially aid the committee in winding up the great amount of work involved and will add substantially to the success of the campaign.

The association feels very optimistic as to the final attainment of its goal at a nearly date and hopes and expects shortly to be able to make some very interesting announcements to its friends and to the community.

A considerable amount has already been paid in on the pledges—the plan of the campaign provided for three payments; one-third of the pledge promptly, one-third on February 15, 1920, and the final third on June 15, 1920—and it is hoped the payments can be kept substantially on this schedule.

A meeting will probably be called during the coming week of all the campaign workers, so that final reports can be received and plans made for seeing those in the borough who have not as yet been given a direct opportunity to subscribe, although all should feel free to send any pledge they desire to make, whether or not they have as yet been personally approached.

The association appreciates the fine spirit of good-will and co-operation that has been extended to it, and is striving in every way to fully merit the confidence of the community.

School Notes

"Without halting, without rest,

"Singing Period" is becoming more and more popular. Watch for the three and four-part carol singing this year.

Now don't get tired of this announcement. This is the third time it has appeared—Community Carol Night, Monday, December 22nd, High School Auditorium. Everybody welcome.

Besides the exceptionally large Thanksgiving donation of groceries and clothing, the cash contributed was $10.50. Through the generosity of Mr. Armstrong, of the Main Line Laundry and Garage, the truck load of provisions was delivered to the University Settlement House, with no expense to the school.

Selective magazine reading and library assignment work is receiving enthusiastic attention by the High School students.

Editorial

THE BIG MEETING NEXT THURSDAY EVENING.

We urge everyone who is anxious to make sure of hearing Mr. Ernest T. Trigg, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, speak next Thursday evening in Elm Hall to make early application for tickets. This is the first of a series of talks to be given in Elm Hall during the winter under the auspices of the Civic Association. All the speakers will be men of prominence who are well qualified to discuss the timely topics which they have chosen for their talks.

It is the hope of the Civic Association that out of this series of addresses will develop something in the nature of a Narberth Public Forum. Every community should have such an institution, where speakers competent to discuss important public questions from all angles may talk, and where the citizens of the borough may hold public meetings to consider any timely topics.

Let us welcome Mr. Trigg with a large meeting, and show him that Narberth is looking for light and information on all public questions from all viewpoints.

Memorial Question Must be Settled

ATHENA REPLIES TO THE SPECTATOR'S LETTER.

To the Editor of Our Town:

Words, words, meaningless words! In the last issue of Our Town there appeared what purported to be a letter regarding the subject of a war memorial for Narberth. From the mass of words the writer was able to understand part of the first paragraph, "As the men who conceived and who are furthering the plan to rejuvenate the Fire House as a War Memorial have applied themselves to the project with great interest and fine intention in an earnest endeavor to secure for the borough a worthy emblem of a tremendous occasion."

As regards the right and wrong of the proposition, there is so much right and so very little wrong that the writer cannot understand how any individual or any organization can seem to protest against the plan, with a full knowledge of all the facts and the almost unanimous approval of everyone who has discussed the subject.

Spectator's shot number one says: "The Fire Company offers the property subject to encumbrances for memorial purposes, but the fact that a similar disposition to forego its equity has been indicated on a previous occasion, and for an altogether different purpose, deprives the tender of that unquestioned dignity which must accompany every feature of a true memorial undertaking."

Now, Mr. Spectator, please remember that the Fire Company is not trying to "unload" anything. To go back just a little further, what is and who are the Fire Company? The Fire Company is you and I, every resident of Narberth; a volunteer organization for the protection of our homes and furnishings. The property maintained by about 150 real citizens, and the fire fighting apparatus maintained by our Borough Council. The Fire Company property is today worth about $15,000.00, and of this the Fire Company holds equity to the amount of about $11,000.00, which was secured by contributions from the people of the borough and by hard work on the part of the members. The fact that they, at the request of members of the Memorial Committee, have offered it to the people of Narberth as "basis for a permanent and fitting memorial" can not be discounted and should be appreciated and received in the fine spirit in which the offer was made.

Further on the Spectator's article mentions something about an ethical object in view. The approved memorial proposition does not pretend to be ethical, only plain and quite sincerely American. The memorial is not confusing, neither is it involved, to anyone who can understand exactly what the issue is and what it pretends to be.

Narberth is indeed fortunate to have a building which can with a relatively small outlay be made into a memorial of a type that is in its practical value the ambition of so many small towns throughout the country.

The idea of providing a permanent home that will be permanently maintained for the members of the American Legion can not be questioned as a war memorial. The fact that our local post of the American Legion has approved the idea and will welcome the quarters provided with real appreciation does not injure the offer or its acceptance in any way, as Spectator would have our readers believe.

Spectator says, "The cost of the project is altogether out of proportion to our means and extravagance is no concomitant of nobility or intelligence." If extravagance were attendant to the nobility and intelligence of those who made the proposition it would be for them to provide the ways and means to bring the plan to a successful conclusion. The plan is not extravagant, although it does include erecting a clock tower, which would be one of the big items of expense, a clock tower being included not because of its necessity, or of its real practicability, but as a combination that would please all of the ideas expressed at the many meetings of the committee.

Eliminating the clock feature, the expenditure of $12,000.00 should certainly be within the means of the people of Narberth. With a clock tower and clock, the cost would rise to about $15,000.00, possibly a little less, and this should not be called extravagance if it provides a memorial of which we could be proud and would be valued at $30,000.00 and be permanently maintained.

The maintenance feature is the one that has been a snag to useful memorials, and is the feature that would immediately condemn the clock tower to be placed on the north side of the station.

Spectator states that this clock tower has heretofore received the greatest and most consideration. With this the writer does not agree, having talked the memorial to everyone who seemed the slightest interested. One of the objections to the clock tower near the station would be that it would cost more than our real memorial if it were erected to a height that would be of any value. The fifteen-foot clock tower proposed would be of no use as a time-piece. Who cares how much the 5.15 is late arriving from the city? If we have to get to Haverford and Essex or Haverford and Narberth avenues before we learn what time it is, we had better order 1,000 clocks and put one in front of each house in town, so that we could judge the time from our homes to the station.

The setting, with the stores on the north as a background and the station on the south, would not show off the work of art as well as the plain white background of the artist. A man would have to be a Prussian or an I. W. W. to swing an axe into the fine old tree which now ornaments the site, and we would have to wait until our children were grandfathers or grandmothers before the tree could be replaced.

We need more bulls and less bears in the memorial market, and please note that the former is plural, and if the memorial question must be settled, and Spectator wants a clock, let him rest assured that if he gets behind the Fire House proposition which has been approved, the money can be had and that the ethical problems which he believes he has found can be embodied in the project, which has the endorsement of 99 44-100 per cent. of the people.

ATHENA.

THE LOTTERY.

He had, of late, complained that Mary's letters were growing cold and unresponsive. Being a mere man, how could one expect him to know that her apparent indifference was a new-born shyness which meant that she had ceased to love the dream man and was now deeply in love with Arnold Day.

But this last letter—
Arnold wrote that he was in Paris on leave of absence.

He was having a wonderful time. Had met some charming people, among whom was a fascinating French girl.

He really hated the thought of having to return and leave these new-found friends.

Of her growing coldness; of wishing to be back home and of being lonesome for her, had been said not one word. "Ah, well, it was inevitable," she mused bitterly. "What can a dream-wife expect? He had met the other girl and he loves her. That's my cue to make a graceful exit. But of Dal—"

A dull thud broke the silence. Mary sprang from her chair and rushed into the next room.

"Rhoda, what—is—it?" she gasped, breathlessly. A low moaning cry met her ears; then a terror-stricken voice, "It's Mr. Dal."

"My God!" Mary stared helplessly down at the crumpled mass before her.

"Dal, darling; Dal—speak to me—speak to me," she almost shrieked.

"Quick Rhoda—the doctor."

She knelt beside the thing on the floor. It shuddered convulsively and lay motionless.

Several days later Mary wrote to Arnold:

"My husband:

"Dal, my little brother, is dead. I cannot, in words, express the gratitude which I feel for all you have done for us. You made Dal's last days not merely bearable, but wonderfully happy, and Arnold, for that I thank you from the depths of my heart.

"I can see from your last letter that the inevitable has happened. You have met her.

"Dear man, I wish you every happiness in the world and you deserve it.

"I am leaving Rhoda to look after the apartment.

"I am going away. I want you to divorce me and to marry her.

"Tell her the whole truth, dear, and if she doesn't think it plausible, have her write to me. I will explain it all.

"As for me, don't worry. I shall be all right. I thank you again for the supreme happiness you gave Dal and me.

"Goodbye, dream husband,

"I loved you,

"Mary."

Three years had passed since Dal's death and Mary's departure from Arnold's home. During these years she had worked hard and played little. And now, at last, her work was commencing to show results.

At present Mary was acting as companion to Mrs. Bellaires, a fashionable widow in quest of a husband. The widow was pleasure-loving and friendly—with the exception of when men were concerned—and, as men bored Mary, the widow and her present life were quite congenial to the girl.

A few months after Dal's death Mary had read that Arnold was severely wounded and that, owing to the kindness of influential friends, he had been removed to their home in Paris.

She knew who these friends were and she supposed that Arnold was by now married to the other girl or else—dead.

She could not bring herself to face the thought of his death, and yet, how cheerfully had she talked of it to him on that memorable night when she had gone to him. Oh! how fortunate was that other girl who had known Arnold's love!

Mary wondered if he had answered her last letter. She had left no name, no address, for fear she might weaken. Had he written she would never know, for to the world Mary Carter was dead. She was now known by her nom de plume, Mary Carstairs.

"Three years—"

"Mary, Mary," a high, imperative voice broke in upon her reverie.

(To be Continued Next Week.)

Have you secured your tickets for the talk to be given next Thursday evening at Elm Hall by Mr. Ernest T. Trigg, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce?

HERE'S the suction-sweeper you have always wanted—a sweeper with a real bristle brush which revolves and picks up all thread, lint, ravellings, grit, and other dirt and is backed up by a strong suction which lifts the dirt into the dust-bag. The requires no cords nor plugs as it is not an electric cleaner. It weighs only 6½ lbs. and is amazingly simple to operate. Surprisingly low price.

Vacuette

The above department should be of the greatest use to the community, the list contains the name of every professional man, tradesman, mechanic, shopkeeper, etc., who does or can in any way serve his fellow-townsmen, and who is progressive enough to add name to list of Register.

As it is difficult for those contributing their time and efforts to the production of "Our Town" to personally either know or interview all such, it would be most helpful if those not now found in the printed list would send in a memo of their names, address, phone numbers and businesses or professions for listing. This will cost as follows: 10 cents each issue for 3 lines; 5 cents for each additional line.
